Infinitely Polar Bear & The Runner

Austin Stark, who produced Mark Ruffalo and Zoe Saldana's new film Infinitely Polar Bear, makes his directorial debut with The Runner, a contemporary political drama starring Nicholas Cage and Sarah Paulson that opens August 7th. Stark said, "For my first film as a director, I'm honored to be working alongside one of the finest living actors, Nicolas Cage." Stark also produced Happythankyoumoreplease starring Josh Rander, Mailn Akerman, and Zoe Kazan.

Ted 2's Mark Wahlberg talked about his life as Marky Mark and working for Calvin Klein. "When I was a rapper, the groupies didn't have to try too hard with me. Just show up at the hotel." As to his Calvin's, he explained, "All that running around in my underwear put money in my pockets." His co-stars said the funniest things. Seth MacFarlane: "I'm wide open to getting married, but actors are not easy people to date. You end up sharing that person with this other mistress that is their career."

Amanda Seyfried should have auditioned for Magic Mike. She says, "I'm most comfortable in my birthday suit," adding, "When you're young, it's hard not to get together with your costar."

The Parrish Art Museum in the Hamptons hosted their annual Midsummer Party featuring a show by dancer and choreographer Richard Move. Among those checking each other in addition to the collection were jeweler Lisa Jackson, designers Tony Ingrao and Randy Kemper, Ramona Singer, the museum's popular director Terrie Sultan, and actress/model Anastasia Garvey, who was celebrating her guest starring role on Colin Quinn's web series Cop Show, which was produced by Jerry Seinfeld.

Consuelo Vanderbilt Costin joined Adele when she appeared on Germany's biggest morning TV show, ZDF Fernsehgarten, where she performed tracks from her new album, I'm Just Me. costinmusic.com
